Deacon Patricia Marks, standing on the left, and the Rev. Peter Ingeman, standing center, hold services at Langdale Place on Tuesday morning at 10:30 a.m.

The parishioners and clergy of Christ Episcopal Church find God in many places every week at the many services offered by the church. One of those is Langdale Place, a retirement and assisted living facility. This service evolved from a Tuesday morning service held at Christ Church. When several of the faithful attendees moved to Langdale Place late in their lives, the former rector of Christ Church, Bishop Henry Louttit, moved the service to this facility to make attendance more convenient for them. The short communion service is open to everyone. Christ Church members Marshall and Barbara Parks, Jim Elliott, and Steve Roberts, who assists his mother-in-law, are regulars at the service. Eloise Smith and Jane Ferrell, also regulars, serve as altar guild members, setting up and cleaning up in the activities room where the group meets.

As the soft light emerges, Father Ingeman offers a short communion service at the church at 7 a.m. on Thursday morning using Rite II from the Book of Common Prayer.

There is a loyal group of about 10 people who have attended the service for as long as 30 years. Many of them went to

SUNDAY SCHOOL: IT'S A GOOD THING

I want to invite you to Sunday School, also called Christian Education. Actually, I am not just extending an invitation to our children; I am also inviting adults. I often wonder how it came about that we have a notion that Sunday School is for kids. I know we have other opportunities for adult Christian Education, Education for Ministry on Sunday afternoon or Bible classes on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings and Thursday morning, all excellent programs. This fall we are adding another series of adult Sunday School programs to that schedule of classes. The schedule of topics is below:

September 13	The Election of the Bishop of Georgia
September 20	General Convention
September 27	A Ministries Fair
October 4	The Episcopal Church 1: Who we are, our history and structure
October 11	The Episcopal Church 2: Our Theology; what we believe
October 18	The Episcopal Church 3: The Prayer Book and Liturgy
October 25	Christ Church Valdosta History 1
November 1	Christ Church Valdosta History 2
November 8	Bishop's Visitation
November 15	Outreach Opportunities, Guest speakers
November 22	Dominican Republic Mission
November 29	Advent 1; Advent wreaths
Special programs for the Season of Advent

Please come and take part in this series and, while you are here, our young people will be able to take part in Sunday School classes of their own. We are always pleased to offer classes for all ages of children, led by dedicated teachers. Our teachers and our classes need the support of all in the parish. Please come and participate.

The Episcopal Church - The Diocese of Georgia - July 29, 2009

To the Clergy and Laity of the Diocese of Georgia

My dear brothers and sisters,

In reflecting on the recent General Convention, I think it fair to say that the overall spirit was positive. I want to thank our deputation for their dedication throughout long hours of deliberation and debate. I hope you were able to go to our diocesan website where you were kept well-informed on a daily basis and where there is a good summary of events put together by our deputies.

There were, of course, areas of contention. Not everyone - on both sides of the issues - will be pleased by all the actions taken. Nonetheless, we remain intact, and we remain together in faith to continue struggling and praying and considering the questions - both theological and political - that face the Episcopal Church and, indeed, the Anglican Communion.

Unfortunately, as with the secular economy, finances are more limited than in earlier times. The national Church budget reflects this and cuts were made in many areas. However, I believe that our Presiding Bishop has focused the priorities correctly, funding ministry where it happens - on the local level. Our Church will remain visible and viable as we all work to the glory of God in the name of our Lord.

With affection and appreciation, Henry I. Louttit, Bishop of Georgia

The Vineyard, p. 3, September 2009

If you build it, they will come.

We are God's people, and we hope to understand what He would have us do in this place," said Maggie Roberts when asked what the Long Range Planning Committee of the Vestry hoped to accomplish at the Saturday, August 8th meeting. Over 100 parishioners attended the dinner meeting catered by the Men in Blue.

"Members of the committee have met for two-and-a-half years," explained chairman Clint Beeland, "and we are at a point where we have the results of the survey describing what our members want, we have the architects' preliminary drawings, but we need more input about priorities and clarification about the sanctuary space before we move forward."

Tom Carroll and Mike Tanner echoed Clint's request for questions, comments, and opinions to help the committee decide how to continue. There were three additional information sessions August 16, 19, and 23 at the church.

"I like the fact that the plan is comprehensive," said Duke Guthrie, "They have put a lot of thought into the different aspects."

Dave Clark encouraged the group to make a commitment. "We can do whatever we want to do. Think about the field of dreams. Let's get started."

The Church Bookshelf

by Patricia Marks

C. S. Lewis on Faith and C. S. Lewis on Joy
(Thomas Nelson Pub., 1998).
Compiled by Lesley Walmsley.

Deacon Patricia Marks

For those who love the words of C.S. Lewis, these two slender collections of quotations are treasures indeed. Indeed, because of their copious illustrations from artists as diverse as Hieronymus Bosch and Edward Burne-Jones, they can serve as a kind of pared-down, modern Book of Hours, used in Medieval days as an aid to prayer. The quotations, prefaced by a brief biographical note, range far and wide over Lewis's writings. In On Faith, the selections move from the parameters of Christian belief, through "the Devil as Screwtape," to God's love. As such, On Faith serves as the basis for the other collection, On Joy, which, rather than being a paean to his (Lewis's) wife, is a thoughtful and gladsome exploration of that joy that is the gift of grace.

Some time ago, Dr. John Curtis gave me these volumes and asked me to share them. They are now in the church library.

Cursillo together and chose to include this service in their prayer life. The group is very excited to have new people come to the service, and they invite them to join them at King's Grill for breakfast following the service. The waitresses know everyone by name and what they usually order. Newcomers are welcomed with delight.

Often travelers, who find out about the service online or from a motel clerk, attend the service. "There is a couple from North Carolina," said Fr. Ingeman, "who make a practice of stopping on their way to and from Florida in the fall and spring. We look forward to seeing them every year."

The Thursday morning Bible Study is held in the parish hall. According to Fr. Ingeman, the current group has read and discussed the entire Bible and is currently in the Old Testament again in Exodus. This group of regulars also welcomes new members with new ideas and questions.

Two other services are held once a month. On 6 p.m. on second Saturdays, Tar+ presides at a Eucharist filled with guitar music and "Caritas" songs, followed by a supper prepared by volunteers from the Men in Blue. At 2:30 p.m. on third Thursdays, Christ Church sponsors a simple worship service at Heritage House, a nursing home on Ashley Street.

The Sunday evening Vespers Service is led by members of the congregation or Deacon Patricia Marks and uses the New Zealand Prayer Book Night Prayer and other special evening services. The amethyst-tinted light and altar candles contribute to the calming, centering beauty of this service. A sign-up sheet is available at each service to encourage those who attend to choose a date to lead the service, offering a homily or discussion about the Gospel reading. Like the Thursday morning group, these regulars enjoy eating together after the service at the Atlanta Bread Company.

How do the attendees at these services feel about their experience? Perhaps Brad Burnette summed it up best of all when he commented after a Thursday morning service: "It's all about community."

Happening #83 Closing at Honey Creek

Text by Gus Elliott, Photographs by Julia Sierra Wilkinson

Well, another Happening has come and gone, and #83 was definitely one of the best yet. I can't go into much detail about the weekend, because I don't want to spoil anything for those who have not experienced the magic of Happening. However, the closing ceremony is without a doubt worth mentioning, as it was a truly special moment for everyone who attended.

Closing for Happening #83 was just as exciting and as jubilant as ever. The air was filled with the sound of Happeners young and old singing Honey Creek favorites such as "All in All" and "I Will Sing of Your Love Forever." But despite the joy and happiness that is always found at Happening, a strange sense of sadness also made its presence known. Why? Happening #83 was the last Happening The Rt. Rev. Henry Louttit would attend as Bishop of the Diocese of Georgia.

In the middle of the ceremony, Diocesan Coordinator Jody Grant interrupted the normal festivities to bring Bishop Louttit and his wife Jan up to the altar of the chapel. There, Jody presented the Bishop with a book of Caritas that had been filled over the course of several months, written by Happeners from all over the diocese. Then, Spiritual Director Sonia Sullivan-Clifton gave a prayer quilt to Jan, explaining that Happeners had been praying over it all weekend.

Finally, after celebrating the Eucharist, Bishop Louttit and his family were brought to the altar once again, where the entire congregation prayed for them as the Bishop enters his retirement. Definitely an emotional and spiritual moment for all, so much so that the seemingly endless torrents of rain that had fallen on Honey Creek all weekend subsided, making for one of the most memorable, if not bittersweet, Happenings ever.

Iraqi Children's Fund Pencil & Paper Project

Thank you to all the people who contributed time, money, and supplies to the Iraqi Children's Fund. The Project was a big success. We are not continuing the Project this year because the situation overseas has changed, and we no longer have a personal contact in Iraq. The leftover supplies and funds from this account will be put to good use aiding children in need here at home.

At Sewanee this Summer

by Walter Hobgood

Walter Hobgood

By April of 2009, I found myself looking forward to my third summer session at Sewanee. It was time to decide what classes to take, purchase the books and start reading the pre-read assignments. Because I have met numerous students during my previous two summers, I started contacting them to see who was coming back this year.

This summer five students from the Diocese of Georgia participated in the classes. In addition to me, the others were Marcia McRae of Bainbridge (via Valdosta); Bob Dolan of Augusta; Curtis Johnson of Augusta; and Steve Larson of Jesup.

Tom and Lee Shafer were also there, with Lee working on her Ph.D., and Tom auditing classes. They very graciously opened their home in Sewanee to all of us for a bit of R & R on weekends. Lee, the former Christ Episcopal Church Assistant Rector, is currently serving as Priest in Charge at a church in Anniston, AL.

The five of us from Georgia decided to join the local July 4th Parade, a big time event in Sewanee, rather than sitting on the sidelines.

You will be happy to know that we represented Georgia well, placing third overall in our category.

This summer there were four courses offered: The Torah, Popular Theology, Use of the Catechumenate, and Leadership for Transformation and Growth. We had several visiting professors who brought fresh perspectives to those of us who have attended in previous years. Students are allowed to take only two classes each summer.

The student body was made up mostly of ordained ministers working on their Ph.D. degrees, with a sprinkling of Special Students. The students came from 17 states and 7 different denominations. Ages ranged from early 30's to much older. Some of you may be surprised to find out that I was not the oldest.

A typical day started with Morning Prayer at 7:30 a.m., classes from 8 until noon, a Eucharist service and lunch from noon to 1:30 and classes from 1:30 to 5:30 p.m. This was usually followed by several hours in the library reading and doing research for term papers.

The schedule, the friendships, and the beauty of the place make for a great learning environment. It is intense, challenging and rewarding. I am already looking forward to next year.

Christ Church Looks Back

by Joseph A. Tomberlin

August Eighteenth, 1951

Rt. Rev. Myddleton S. Barnwell
Bishop of Georgia
7. East St. Julian St.,
Savannah, Ga.

Dear Bishop:

You will remember a conversation we had, on the occasion of your last visit in Valdosta, in reference to the American Church Building Fund, and the possibility of our securing a loan from them, covering the amount of our mortgage due, on terms somewhat more favorable to our Church. You later said you thought it better if you were to check on the situation before you wrote to them, and that you would let us know the "lay of the land" . . . has anything happened in this connection? We would be most happy to hear.

As things stand, most things are going along quite smoothly, but we are faced with one problem---adequate Sunday School room. And, we are of the thought that perhaps we could secure sufficient funds from the Building Fund to pay off our mortgage and still give us enough additional to build an addition to house four or five additional school rooms---and also, if we are lucky, to have a bit longer time in which to pay off our obligation. As you know, the load is a bit heavy---too much so to permit our building an addition on our own.

We would be happy indeed to hear from you.

Kindest regards and all good wishes from all of the Vestry.

Sincerely yours,
Robert G. Macks, Secy.

"[M]ost things are going along quite smoothly, but we are faced with one problem---adequate Sunday School room." The foregoing sentence sounds familiar and contemporary, but it actually is from a letter to Bishop Myddleton S. Barnwell written by Vestry Clerk Robert G. Macks and dated August 18, 1951. Shown as September's historical document, the message raises the possibility of applying for large enough a loan from the American Church Building Fund Commission to pay the existing mortgage and to construct an addition to the Parish Hall to provide four or five Sunday School rooms.

The Bishop replied to Macks on September 27, 1951, with the suggestion of a letter to the Building Fund Commission, laying "your problem before them, sending me a copy of your letter." Barnwell was quite accurate in his prediction of the course of events. He wrote, "They will probably send you an application blank and write you that they have no money to lend but if we get an application on file and continue to bring pressure to bear we will ultimately get the money I think."

Bob Macks was not in town when the Bishop's response arrived. As his secretary informed Barnwell on October 1, 1951, Macks and his wife had departed Valdosta on September 24th for a trip of six weeks to England. After their return, he read the letter to the Vestry in the meeting of November 18, 1951. Thereupon, the Vestry approved a motion that "the Secretary and the Vicar plan a letter to the Fund, outlining our position and asking such aid as might be available to us."

The resulting communication was ready for Vestry action at the next meeting on December 2, 1951. With some revisions, the draft document received approval, and Mr. Macks was directed to sign and to mail the resulting missive. Before sending the letter to the Church Fund, Macks again wrote Bishop Barnwell and mailed both pieces of correspondence at the same time.

This story will continue in the October issue of The Vineyard. Stay tuned.

After the Wednesday night service on July 29th, Fr. Peter Ingeman presented Dottie Curtis with a prayer shawl made by the Stitchers of Love and Beth Curtis with a gold cross necklace as going away gifts.

Beth has returned to Atlanta, and Dottie has moved to Illinois. Dottie's new address is Dorothy Curtis, 2926 W. Brookside Drive, Peoria, IL 61615: home 309-682-4434 and cell 309-550-8819. She can be reached at her daughter Jody Ward's email address <jaws629@yahoo.com>.

Camp St. Francis at Honey Creek

Text and photos by Phyllis Hiers

Why is Honey Creek so amazing? What causes the comb jellies to glow? What makes bubblegum lichen pink? How do crabs meet each other?

These are a few of the questions St. Francis campers want to explore in next year's nature camp. This summer during nature time middle-schoolers enjoyed swinging on huge grape vines in the woods, marveling at the eyes of fiddler crabs on their tiny retractable stalks, building bluebird houses, and playing habitat games.

Father Lonnie Lacy and Dan Redanz led campers in a study of baptism -- how God names us as His own, invites us to join the family of believers, gives us gifts and responsibilities, and claims us as His own forever, no matter what. Campers made creative and humorous videos inviting others into God's family.

Of course, camp isn't camp without new friends, swimming, arts and crafts, opportunities for archery, kayaking, and ropes course, a talent show, games, ghost stories, a dance, frequent times for worshipping together, and tons of fun.

Campers and staff from Valdosta included: Andrew Greneker, Claire Hanson, Bailey Hurst, Laura Murphy, McKenzie Weston (via Pennsylvania), Tricia Greneker, Savannah Spivey, Mimi Allen, and Phyllis Hiers.

Calling All Phones

Jordon Jackson is collecting cell phones for the women at the Haven, Valdosta's shelter for women and children who are victims of domestic violence. Jordon is a Life Scout working on his Eagle Scout project.

Over 98 used cell phones and 74 chargers were collected in July and August with the majority coming from Christ Episcopal Church. This project is special to Jordon and his family because his aunt was a victim of domestic violence. You can add to the collection by bringing a used phone to the church office or calling Jordon at 630-5853.

Jordon is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Jackson and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Emory Warrick. Both families are longtime members of Christ Church. Thank you Jordon for this service to the community.

Lonnie Lacy Installed as Tifton Rector

The Rev. Thomas A. "Lonnie" Lacy, II, a former member of Christ Episcopal Church, was installed as the tenth Rector of St. Anne's Episcopal Church in Tifton, GA, on August 10, 2009. Several members of Christ Church attended the service, which was conducted by The Rt. Rev. Henry Louttit, Bishop of Georgia. The Rev. Dr. J. Barney Hawkins, the Vice President for Institutional Advancement and Associate Dean for the Center for Anglican Studies at Virginia Theological Seminary, gave the sermon. Dr. Hawkins is a longtime friend and mentor to Fr. Lacy. The offering at the service was designated for the Episcopal Camp & Conference Center at Honey Creek, where Fr. Lacy is often present during summer camps and youth events.
